APPLICATION FOR NEW MANUFACTURED PERMANENT MODULAR OR RELOCATABLE BUILDINGSFootnotes:

1. Permanent modular buildings are defined as enclosed buildings for the housing of students and teachers for school purposes, such as classroom, assembly, administrative buildings, etc., and shall include modular elevator towers.
2. Observation of the onsite construction includes all work included on the DSA-approved modular or relocatable building plans and specifications (example: foundations, ceilings, finishes).
3. Stockpiling of manufacturer's buildings may be considered a relocation rather than the first-time installation.

Instructions:

Manufacturer Scope of Work: Manufacturer scope of work shall match that shown on Line 5 of the DSA 1 for new construction of permanent modular buildings or relocatable buildings.

- 1.0 The architect or structural engineer of the project listed on Line 23 of the DSA 1 must delegate the responsibility for the preparation of plans, observation of in-plant construction, and observation of first-time placement (not for relocations) on a project site to the manufacturer's design professional responsible for the design of the building.

One design firm and individual responsible for the preparation of construction documents shall be listed per each DSA 1-MR. If multiple design professionals are delegated responsibility for a manufacturer's building, a separate DSA 1-MR shall be submitted for each individual. The individual's signature acknowledging his/her responsibilities shall be provided. The individual may sub-delegate the responsibility for observation of the in-plant construction and for the first-time construction of the building on the project site to a California registered architect or California licensed structural engineer. The individual accepting responsibility for observation of construction shall sign the verified report, DSA 152-IPI, at completion of construction. If an alternative design professional is required, the alternate may be identified and accepted by DSA using form DSA 108.

- 1.1 The individual architect or structural engineer accepting responsibility as a sub-delegate shall sign acknowledging his/her responsibilities. The individual accepting responsibility for observation of construction shall sign the verified report, DSA 152-IPI, at completion of construction. If an alternative design professional is required, the alternate may be identified and accepted by DSA using form DSA 108.
- 1.2 The individual architect or structural engineer accepting responsibility as a sub-delegate shall sign acknowledging his/her responsibilities. The individual accepting responsibility for observation of construction shall sign the verified report, DSA 152-IPI, at completion of construction. If an alternative design professional is required, the alternate may be identified and accepted by DSA using form DSA 108.
