12/13/08	83	San Bernardino County Office of Education	Tri City Community Day School	7 to 12						the CTE facility needs assessment is being adequately met by the COE. The CTEAC agreed that the Paxton Patterson module was sufficient in teaching building skills. Because the students' enrollment is short-lived, the building skills program is designed to entice them to enter the field of building skills and upon their entrance back into the mainstream high school, they will most likely then seek to participate in the high school's CTE offerings generally offered by the ROP. Since the size of CDS projects differ, it is not possible to convert an entire classroom to CTE because of the core subjects that need to be taught. In such cases, the CTEAC agreed that other forms of CTE could occur by using technology in the classroom, as well as learning resume building, completing applications, etc. The CTEAC suggested incorporating vocational type instruction in the core Math Class alongside the regular curriculum, to show how Math is applicable in different trades such as building skills	09/10/08
